DISCUSSIONS

Supervisor Bush opened the floor for public comment.

1.) Laurie Hollis, representing the Fort Brewerton Historical Society, is displeased with the conditions of the “Boat Deals” property that is adjacent to the Historical Society’s properties in Brewerton. Hollis stated that the “Boat Deals” is looking like a junkyard, with not only stored boats on the property, but partially disassembled ones as well. The board does believe that is a misuse of their permit and will be looking into the matter. Supervisor Bush and Jason Burns are quite certain the Boat Deals should not have pieces of boats, trailers, and engines out and about on the property and again reassured Hollis that the matter would be looked into. Boundary lines will also be double checked to make sure the boats are not on the Historical Society’s property, while the other conditions are taken into consideration.

2.) Supervisor Bush asked Krista Lewis if there was anything new with the parks. Lewis talked about an event a group of Senior residents held with bounce houses and a lot of fun for all. Everyone is awaiting the opening of the new dog park, which needs the weather to cooperate so the grass can get established before the dogs are allowed in.
